

XM provides a valuable service with its traffic and weather reports. In fact, it's a matter of public safety that someone provide this information consistently. It's a shame that the NAB feels that it needs to shut down competition in such a crude, un-American way. These channels provide a public service...much more so than the commercial-laden traffic and weather that you get elsewhere.

What POSSIBLE reason could there be for the FCC to not allow this service, other than allowing lobbyists to dictate public policy in exchange for political support? There IS none! Stand up for what is right!!
